A stark, poignant tale of two women deeply connect-

2007), which won the 2006 Flannery O'Connor Award for Short Fiction and was a New York Times Editor's Choice Selection. Several of her nonfiction pieces have also been recognized in The Best American Essays series.

New DWI law went into effect Wednesday, Aug. 1

A new law went into effect Aug. 1 and means people convicted of driving while intoxicated – regardless of the vehicle they're driving – will lose their driver's license and be prohibited from operating motor vehicles, including all-terrain vehicles, motorboats and snowmobiles. The state Legislature passed the law following the death of 8-year-old Alan Geisenkoetter Jr., who died in January after being struck by a snowmobile driven by a man whose driver's license was revoked after multiple DWI offenses.

Before the law change, people convicted of DWI in a highway-licensed vehicle still could legally operate ATVs, motorboats and snowmobiles. The changes apply to violations that occur on or after Aug. 1.

"We have zero tolerance for people who endanger themselves and other people by operating a motor vehicle or recreational vehicle while they're intoxicated," said Col. Rodmen Smith, director of the Minnesota DNR Enforcement Division. "This new law should send the message that drinking and driving – no matter what the vehicle – isn't acceptable and the consequences are severe."

As an example, a person convicted of DWI in a motorboat, or who refuses testing for a motorboat DWI, would have their driver's license suspended and be prohibited from operating ATVs, motorboats and snowmobiles for one year. Additionally, first-time DWI offenders operating off-road recreational vehicles or motorboats also will be subject to chemical use assessments, conditional release and plate impoundment – the same as a DWI in a highway-licensed vehicle.

The Minnesota DNR and other law enforcement agencies in the state, along with ATV and snowmobile groups, supported the law change, which passed the Legislature with bipartisan support and was signed into law in May by Gov. Mark Dayton.

McLeod Cooperative Power to combine and replace its facilities onto 1 site in Glencoe

The McLeod Cooperative Power Board of Directors recently announced its decision to combine and replace its facilities onto one site in the city of Glencoe East Industrial Park.

After about a year of negotiations with the City of Glencoe for an approximate 10-acre site, the Co-op has the parcel it needs to remedy a too-small garage for today's large bucket trucks; gain efficiencies by co-locating the pole yard, garage, and offices on one site; provide better access for customers; and serve power to itself through construction of a new facility. The parcel purchase is pending upon final approval of the purchase terms by both parties.

MCPA's General Manager Carrie Buckley spoke about the new building project. "The current location has served us well for over 68 years, but it can no longer effectively meet the needs of the cooperative. After many years of examination, we believe now is the best time to undergo this much needed project." For at least ten years, and perhaps longer, the Board of Directors has been wrestling with the challenge of fitting our larger 21st century bucket trucks into our 1950's sized garage.

To date, the co-op has modified the facilities in whatever ways possible to accommodate the larger equipment. "We have replaced overhead doors with bi-fold doors and even jackhammered away the loading dock to fit in larger trucks. We marvel every day at the driving skills of our linemen as they back the large trucks into spaces that, in some instances, have only an inch or two of clearance from a concrete wall" said Buckley.

Another dilemma with staying at the current location is that the cooperative's pole and material yards are located offsite. This has resulted in inefficiencies for our employees having to make multiple trips per day to access necessary materials. The design of the new facility will address that problem. The offices, warehouse, truck storage area, materials yard, and fleet parking will now be combined in one location. "This will improve efficiency which will save our members money" stated Buckley.

The effect on rates was foremost on the minds of the Board of Directors and management during the planning process. "With a mission of providing safe, reliable and reasonably priced electrical service to enhance the lives of our members and the communities we serve, the board and management have determined combining and replacing our facilities helps achieve that goal", says MCPA Board Chairman Keith Peterson. "We value the trust our membership has placed in us to make sound decisions to benefit the electric cooperative as a whole."

McLeod Cooperative Power provides electricity to about 6,700 rural locations in McLeod, Carver, Renville, Sibley, Meeker, Wright, and Kandiyohi Counties. It currently has a main office, garage and warehouse on 13th Street (Highway 22) near downtown Glencoe and a pole yard facility along Highway 212 west of Glencoe. McLeod Co-op Power is a Touchstone Energy Cooperative.

Arlington Enterprise tries to feature a variety of news and photos Our View: Readers can help by submitting news and pictures too

The Arlington Enterprise tries hard to feature a variety of news and pictures in our newspaper each week to keep our readers and advertisers happy. That can be a difficult task at various times, especially when school news can dominate the newspaper during any given week throughout the year. However, a variety of news and pictures is the constant and never ending goal at our newspaper.

Some people enjoy the hard news like city council and school board stories. Others like the school news and sports. The editorial page is very popular with some readers. Others like the police news and court reports. Photos are also a big part of the newspaper. Some people like to read feature stories and that is one area where our newspaper needs to improve.

Our newspaper would also like to improve in a number of other areas and that is where our readers can help out. Our newspaper encourages readers to submit birth announcements and pictures, engagement announcements and pictures, and wedding pictures with write ups. Submissions of fishing and hunting photos are also encouraged. In addition, residents are urged to submit news and photos about their children and grandchildren who may live out of the Arlington and Green Isle area.

People who have these types of announcements and pictures are encouraged to drop them off at the Arlington Enterprise office or e-mail them to kurtm@arlingtonmnnews.com.

The addition of these types of news items and pictures will help to make our community newspaper much more complete.

Two men are sitting in a boat on the lake, fishing and drinking beer. Suddenly, Bill confesses, "I think I'm going to divorce my wife. She hasn't spoken to me in nearly six months."

Earl sips his beer. "You'd better think it over. Women like that are hard to find."

As the owner of a new car, a husband was somewhat reluctant to allow his wife to drive his prize possession, even to the grocery store a few blocks away. She continued to ask, however, and he finally relented.

"Remember," he warned her as she got behind the wheel, "if you have an accident, the newspaper will print your age."

An employer complained in a staff meeting that he wasn't getting any respect. Later that morning, he went to a local sign shop and bought a small sign that read, "I'm the boss." He then fixed it to his office door. When he returned from lunch, he found that someone had taped a note to the sign that said, "Your wife called. She wants her sign back."

When a family returned from Sunday morning service, the father criticized the sermon, the daughter said the choir's singing was off-key, and the mother found fault with the organist's playing.

They dropped the subject when the young son said, "But it was a good show for a nickel, don't you think, Dad?"

One cabbie says to another, "Why is one side of your cab painted blue and the other painted green?"

"Well," the other cabbie said, "when I get in an accident, the police always believe my version of what happened. All the witnesses contradict each other."

"I don't deserve this award, but I have arthritis and I don't deserve that either." - Jack Benny

A policeman pulled a female driver over and asked to see her license.

After looking it over, he said to her, "Lady, it stipulates here on your license that you should be wearing glasses."

"Well, I have contacts," the woman replied.

"Look lady, I don't care who you know," snapped the officer. "You're getting a ticket."

Few women admit their age; few men act it.

Eight-year-old Sally brought her report card home from school.

Her grades were good — mostly A's and a couple of B's. However, her teacher had written across the bottom: "Sally is a smart little girl, but she has one fault. She talks too much in school. I have an idea I am going to try, which I think may break her of the habit."

Sally's dad signed her report card, putting a note on the back: "Sally gets it from her mother. Please let me know if your idea works."

A man was interviewing for a job. The interviewer said, "In this job we need someone who is responsible."

"I'm the one you want," the man replied. "At my last job every time anything went wrong, they said I was responsible."

Want to get involved in politics? Here's how

By Lee Hamilton

Back in 1883, Teddy Roosevelt wrote an essay on what it takes to be a true American citizen. He did not mince words. "The people who say that they have not time to attend to politics are simply saying that they are unfit to live in a free community," he wrote. "Their place is under a despotism." He went on: "The first duty of an American citizen, then, is that he shall work in politics."

I hope you'll forgive his gender-specific language. He wrote at a time when women didn't even have the vote. But his essay has been on my mind lately, because his sentiment — that living in a representative democracy demands work from all of us — is as timely now as it was then. A lot of people these days intuitively grasp that our system needs our involvement if we're to safeguard it. So what should we do — especially if politics has to share space in our lives with family and jobs?

The first step is easy: look around your community and ask yourself what needs fixing or what can be done better. I don't care where you live: ten minutes' thought and you'll come up with a healthy list of issues to tackle. This is how a lot of people get started: they see an issue they want to do something about. So they enter the fray, and often come to recognize they have more political power than they thought.

Of course, your chances of effecting change grow as you learn. You have to inform yourself about the issue: listen carefully as you talk to your neighbors and friends, and pay attention to what politicians, commentators, and those involved with the issue say. Participate, if you will, in the dialogue of democracy. It's perfectly fine to personalize the issue as you seek to persuade others, but to be effective you've got to know what others think, too.

The same, really, goes for voting. It should be informed not just by what your gut tells you, but by what you've learned. Our system depends on citizens making discriminating choices on politicians and issues. So you want to educate yourself, which includes talking with people whose opinions differ from yours. The world is complex, even at the neighborhood level, and to be effective we need to understand it.

When it comes time to act, you want to join with a like-minded group of believers. That's how you amplify your strength. Numbers count. And both within that group and among the others you'll encounter, you try to build consensus. There's an old saying that if you want to go fast you go alone, if you want to go far you join together. That's very true in politics.

Next, you have to communicate — with each other, with the media, and at the local, state, and national levels. You have to communicate with your representatives. You have to go to public meetings and speak up.

Focus your message so it's clear, concise, and specific. Be polite but persistent.

There's another way of participating that's a bit more arms' length, but also important: contribute money to a party or politician of your choice. Doing it is as important as the amount, because money talks in politics, and it helps you expand your influence. For good or ill, it's an important part of politics.

Finally, run for office yourself. If you are so inclined, get a circle of friends to support you. Start locally. Develop the issues you're interested in, pick the office that will help you affect them, organize and build support, focus your message, raise money. If this isn't to your taste, then support candidates of your choice.

All of these are ways of participating — and if you want more, search out The New York Times' guide, "How to Participate in Politics." The key thing, as President Obama said, is to show up. There are all kinds of ways to have an impact, but they start with one thing: Showing up. It's the least we should do.

St. Peter, the city of Governors was the scene of a spectacular gunfight late Wednesday afternoon of last week, when Sheriff Zacharias of this county, Sheriff Johnson of Nicollet Co. and Detective Erickson of the Bureau of Criminal Apprehension attempted to arrest Wm. Witte, operator of the Road House near that city. As a result of the battle Mr. Witte lies in the Gaylord Hospital with a bullet in both legs, while Detective Erickson was also injured and was under a doctor's care Wednesday night. Witte, operator of a Road House near St. Peter, was suspected by the authorities of holding up a Road House near Henderson several weeks ago, and it was on this charge that Sheriff Zacharias went to make the arrest.

The local canning factory opened up with a trial run on Monday of this week and continued the pack until Tuesday evening. The rain Tuesday night and Wednesday put a damper on the operations for the time being. Although the yield has been cut somewhat by the drought, the quality of the corn is said to be very good.

The 79th annual Sibley County Fair will be staged in the new and enlarged fair grounds at Arlington on August 13, 14 and 15. With Ralph "Boot" Soeffker, local contractor, received a severe hand injury yesterday morning while supervising construction work at the new theatre. While the crew was raising one of the steel beams, a steel post support toppled over and struck Mr. Soeffker a glancing blow on the left hand cutting a deep gash. "Boot" did not see the post as it fell and he is fortunate that it did not strike him on the head, which it missed by inches. He was taken to the hospital by a local doctor who put 14 stitches in the wound, and then went back to the job.

Blood shortage continues as thousands answer the call to give

Thousands of people have responded to the emergency call for blood and platelet donations issued by the American Red Cross in early July. Still, there continues to be an emergency need for donors of all blood types, especially type O, to give now to address a severe blood shortage.

Red Cross blood donations are being distributed to hospitals faster than they are coming in, and right now there is less than a five-day blood supply on hand. The Red Cross strives to keep a five-day supply of blood to meet the needs of patients and to be prepared for emergencies that require significant volumes of donated blood products.

"Patients don't get a summer break from the need for lifesaving treatments, so it is critical that hospitals have access to blood products each and every day," said Sue Thesenga, communications manager of the North Central Blood Services Region. "We sincerely appreciate those who have responded to the call to help save lives, but the emergency need remains. Those who haven't rolled up a sleeve to give are urged to do so today."

There is a particular need for type O blood, which plays an important role in ongoing patient care and emergencies. Type O positive is the most transfused blood type and can be given to patients with any Rh-positive blood type. Type O negative is the universal blood type and can be given to any patient. It's what emergency room personnel reach for when there is no time to determine the blood type of patients in the most serious situations.

In thanks, all those who come to donate blood or platelets July 30 through Aug. 30, 2018, will receive a $5 Amazon.com Gift Card via email.

Deer hunters will have more opportunities this fall

Additional deer hunting opportunities will be available this fall because numbers continue to rebound across the state and now many areas have populations at or above goal levels, according to the Department of Natural Resources.

"Deer populations have responded well to favorable winter weather and our generally conservative harvest levels in recent years," said Erik Thorson, acting big game program leader for the DNR. "So we have been able to expand hunting opportunities once again in much of the state in order to reduce populations or stabilize growth."

This year, there are more deer permit areas where hunters can use bonus permits to harvest more than one deer, and fewer areas where hunters need to apply in a lottery to shoot an antlerless deer.

Mandatory testing for chronic wasting disease (CWD) continues this year: in the disease management zone (deer permit area 603) during all deer seasons; in most permit areas in southeastern Minnesota during the first two days of both the A (Nov. 3 and 4) and 3B (Nov. 17 and 18) firearm seasons; and in several deer permit areas in Crow Wing and Meeker county areas in north-central and central Minnesota during the first two days of the A firearms season.

Hunters can buy deer licenses and apply to the lottery for antlerless deer permits beginning Wednesday, Aug. 1. The deadline to apply for the antlerless permit lottery is Thursday, Sept. 6. Archery deer season opens Saturday, Sept. 15, and firearms deer season opens Saturday, Nov. 3.

Every year harvest regulations are reviewed, taking a wide variety of information into consideration. Wildlife research scientists use the previous year's harvest data, winter severity, aerial survey information where available and other information to estimate late winter deer abundance in each permit area. These estimates are compared to established population goals for each area, and along with observations from DNR area wildlife managers, hunters, farmers, foresters and others, form the basis for final season recommendations.

"As part of our new statewide White-tailed Deer Management Plan, we are scheduling local meetings across the state for citizens, including hunters, to come and discuss deer hunting regulations and management with area DNR wildlife managers," Thorson said.

The regulations for each of Minnesota's deer permit areas are set to manage populations toward goals established for each area. These goals are based on information from the DNR and local citizens through a periodic public goal-setting process.

In just one of the state's 130 permit areas, only bucks can be hunted. In 39 areas, hunters must be chosen in a lottery to harvest an antlerless deer (down from 48 areas last year). In 36 areas, hunters have the choice of harvesting a doe or a buck (down from 38 areas last year). Bonus permits allowing hunters to harvest more than one deer may be used in 54 permit areas (up from 43 areas last year) and for most special hunts. Four permit areas in southeastern Minnesota will also be open again for an early antlerless-only hunt in October.

Buying A License

Hunters who purchase a license by Sept. 6 are automatically entered into the lottery for an antlerless permit. Those who do not wish to harvest an antlerless deer are encouraged to purchase their license after the lottery deadline.

Hunters may apply using both their firearm and muzzle-loader licenses. If a hunter is selected for both licenses, only one antlerless deer can be taken.

Deer hunting licenses, lottery applications and special hunt applications are available at any DNR license agent, by telephone at 888-646-6367 or online at mndnr.gov/buyalicense. Lottery winners will be notified in October.

Permit Area Changes

Changes to permit area boundaries made last year remain in effect this year. In southeastern Minnesota, portions of permit areas 347 and 348 were merged to form permit area 603 when CWD was detected. In northeastern Minnesota's moose range, all or some of permit areas 122, 127, 176, 178, 180 and 181 from 2016 were realigned to form permit areas 130, 131, 132 and 133.

County Commissioner Race

The following is a question and answer session with the three candidates who are running for the Fourth District County Commissioner seat.

The three candidates are incumbent Joy Cohrs and challengers Josh Byro and Steve Gillaspie.

The three candidates will square off in the upcoming Primary Election on Tuesday, Aug. 14.

The top two candidates will square off in the General Election on Tuesday, Nov. 6.

The Fourth District includes the City of Green Isle, City of New Auburn, Bismarck Township, Grafton Township, Moltke Township, New Auburn Township and Transit Township.

Joy Cohrs

1. Please introduce yourself to our readers. I am Joy Cohrs. I have lived in Sibley County for 45 years just north of New Auburn. I am widowed and have two children and seven grandchildren.

2. Why are you running for County Commissioner? I have served as the District 4 Commissioner for the past 7 1/2 years. I am running for re-election.

3. What do you see as the roles/responsibilities of the County Board? The roles and responsibilities are to oversee county operations and work on the budget to set the levy.

4. If re-elected, what would be among your priorities for the Sibley County Board? The priorities are to finish restructuring and courthouse renovations, continue to improve service and work on improving ditch maintenance.

Joy Cohrs

5. What are the current challenges of the Sibley County Board? The current challenge is maintaining the budget to keep the tax levy as low as possible.

6. In your opinion, what has Sibley County done well the past few years? Restructuring has been good to make things run more efficiently and better serve the public. Many departments are now combined.

7. What has been done poorly that you would like to see changed? Ditch maintenance. We need to catch up with spraying, etc., and keep ditches maintained.

Josh Byro

1. Please introduce yourself to our readers. My name is Josh Byro. I am a 35 year old husband and father who graduated from GFW in 2001. I went to SDSU and currently reside in Transit township. I am an entrepreneur, landowner, farmer, and I run a small business called Midwest RV Rentals.

2. Why are you running for County Commissioner? As your next county commissioner I will bring new energy, enthusiasm, and perspective. My goal is to support and benefit my fellow citizens along with the overall county. I have a vested interest in the prosperity of this community and I want a voice in the development. I believe Sibley County needs a fresh perspective to manage our upcoming challenges. I will add a visionary yet conservative outlook. I also feel we need more people getting involved with decisions with our county and it's time to take a different approach, that will be both challenging and rewarding.

Josh Byro

3. What do you see as the roles/responsibilities of the County Board? The roles and responsibility of the board is to make the most educated and best decisions for our district we represent and ensure that all citizens have a voice that is represented fairly. And to better the county we live in for all of us.

4. If elected, what would be among your priorities for the Sibley County Board? I will be looking into creative solutions to minimize our tax burden. Looking into grants and bonds we can get. Bring more business back to our county so we can grow our county, not have it on a decline as it is right now. I will also take the time to listen to everyone's input to make the best decision for my district I represent.

5. What are the current challenges of the Sibley County Board? The challenges are our rising taxes and our county ditch system. Along with many issues in between.

6. In your opinion, what has Sibley County done well the past few years? We have done a great job of keeping our small county morals and values with opportunity for growth.

7. What has been done poorly that you would like to see changed? Wasteful spending and not getting the word out about upcoming changes to what they have on their agendas and getting all of our options before making an informed decision on what all of want versus a select few do. Most issues are not heard of until it is too late.

Steve Gillaspie

Please introduce yourself to our readers. My name is Steve Gillaspie. I served as an Army Ranger in the Vietnam War. I received the Purple Heart and two medals for Valor. I am past president of the Arlington Chamber of Commerce and life member of the Purple Heart Association, Disabled American Veteran (DAV), American Legion, and the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW). I started Veterans on the Water where we take all veterans fishing at no cost to them. I have lived in Green Isle Township for 16 years. I am married to my bubbly wife, Jean, for 40 years and have one son.

I never said I was the brightest bulb in the pack. I came from a school that taught me a lot (the school of hard knocks). I started first business at 16 years old and have started several businesses since. Life has not always been a box of chocolates. I have made mistakes, learned from them and went on to have many successes. Having the knowledge to run a business is a plus. After all Sibley County is a business and should be ran as such. When you vote for me you will be voting for someone who has always been an over achiever. I will always look out for everyone in Sibley County and will never vote on upcoming issues without the knowledge to make an informed decision.

2. Why are you running for County Commissioner? I am running for commissioner because I believe I have the qualifications needed to bring change in Sibley County. As I have said in the past a vote for Steve will not only bring a change but a positive change.

3. What do you see as the roles/responsibilities of the County Board? The responsibilities of the County Board should be spending more time making well informed decisions that matter to the future of Sibley County.

Having schools, good health care, and multimedia is a plus. We need to continue on to include good paying jobs, affordable health care, and affordable housing. In order to accomplish this we need to attract businesses using incentives. We should not sit back and wait for businesses to approach us. We should be actively approaching them. No Commissioner in the past has ever been able to attract businesses. I believe by me knowing how businesses think and operate I would be very helpful in accomplishing this.

Sibley County is still here despite decisions made in the past and hopefully be here for years to come. We will always have problems that need to be solved. We need to step up and solve these problems in a timely matter. (Example) I have been in Sibley County for 16 years and all I have heard is we need to do something with our ditches. I would have thought that in 16 years somebody would have been able to come up with a plan to solve this problem. After all if it were not for the ditches we would be under water.

In closing I will tell you I cannot tell you everything that is going on in Sibley County however I can tell you what is not. I am a quick learner and will always keep everyone in mind when making informed decisions.

A vote for Steve Gillaspie is a vote to secure your future.

Three candidates to compete for Sibley County Queen on Aug. 5

Three candidates will compete for Miss Sibley County during a ceremony in the Heritage Building at the Sibley County Fairgrounds in Arlington at 3 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 5.

The three candidates include Bridget Kavan,

Lafayette; Lauren Roiger, Winthrop; and Caitlin Schmidt, Arlington.

Bridget is sponsored by Kavan Chiropractic. She is the daughter of Lowell and Mary Kavan.

Lauren is sponsored by Elite Health Chiropractic Center. She is the daughter of Brent and Lori Roiger.

Caitlin is sponsored by the Quick Shop and Subway. She is the daughter of Willy and Jennifer Schmidt.

Medicare is changing in Minnesota

Medicare Cost Plans, a type of Medicare plan very popular in Minnesota, will be ending on Dec. 31, 2018, for many, but not all Medicare beneficiaries. This will affect Medicare coverage for many people on Medicare across the state.

Cost Plans are ending, because a law passed by Congress requires the plans to end in most counties in Minnesota in 2019. This law requires that Medicare Cost plans end in counties that have at least two other coverage choices (known as Medicare Advantage) that meet enrollment requirements.

If you are impacted by the Cost Plan changes, you will receive notices from Medicare and your Cost Plan in September. Read and keep every piece of mail you receive from Medicare and your plan. The notices you receive will provide you with important information about the changes.

If the Cost Plan changes affect you, you will need to take action to make sure you have the coverage you need on January 1, 2019.

It is important to know that you have options!

There will be plenty of time to learn about your plan choices and to make the best decision for you. You can connect with experts to help you weigh your options by calling 1-800-Medicare, or Minnesota's Senior LinkAge Line® at 1-800-333-2433.

So, relax and enjoy your summer, because you do not need to do anything about your Medicare plan now. But, keep an eye out for mail from your plan and Medicare in the fall, so you can make a decision that is right for you.
